

FPA Advocacy Day

June 24, 2014 | Washington, DC

Calling All FPA Advocates

Registration is now open for the first annual FPA Advocacy Day in Washington, DC on June 24. This is your opportunity to introduce FPA's values and core beliefs to policymakers in D.C., display FPA's strength as the association for all CFP® professionals, and advocate for issues that impact our profession. Participating in this important day will empower you to positively impact government officials at all levels and take home experience and training to use with your state policymakers.

"Our collective voice is powerful. Please consider this opportunity to be heard, to advance FPA and our profession. Come join me in connecting with our elected officials. Your voice matters!"

Janet Stanzak, MS, CFP®
2014 FPA President

FPA will handle the heavy lifting: setting up meetings with your elected officials, preparing relevant materials, and providing training so you can educate your legislators about FPA, the financial planning process, and be a ready resource for them.

As an Advocacy Day participant you will be provided:

- Appointments with the offices of your representatives
- Networking opportunities
- Advocacy training breakfast
- Advance talking points about FPA policies and priorities
- Background and preparation materials for meetings
- Group room rate of $219 at the Liaison Hotel next to Capitol Hill
- Casual pre-event dinner and continental breakfast on the Hill

At the time of registration you will be assessed a $110 fee*, which will cover dinner, breakfast, and materials.

Don't delay!
We need your voice as part of this effort. REGISTER TODAY!

**All participants are responsible for their own travel expenses.*
